THE HONORARY MEMBERS

The admission of honorary members was, originally, the privilege of the chapters, the first honorary members being admitted by the Middlebury chapter on March 10, 1864. In 1869 the right to admit became vested in the general conventions, but since October 19, 1881, the policy of the fraternity has been against the election of honorary members. The chapters credited with these are as follows: Middlebury, eight; Colgate, seven; Hamilton, six; New York, four; Marietta, three; Union, Rutgers, Brown, Trinity, each, two; Adelbert, Colby, Rochester, Washington and Jefferson, Cornell, Michigan, each, one.

In very few instances has there been a desire to elect these members that their renown might reflect creditably upon the fraternity, but rather to confer honor upon them. Largely these elections have been brought about by relatives in the fraternity, as is instanced by the fact that upon its rolls are found the names of seven grandsons, nineteen sons, two stepsons, two brothers-in-law and eight nephews of honorary members.

Careful investigation has shown that errors in relation to honorary members have appeared repeatedly in earlier catalogues of the fraternity. This is due to the fact that in the Triennial catalogues it was usual to include the names of honorary members with those of the first graduating class; later, when it became customary to group the honorary members by themselves, compilers of the first of these editions included the names of those graduating in the first class with the honorary members, thus largely increasing the number of the latter. The present list is considered correct.

HONORARY MEMBERS.
